FOR THE REAR, WE ARE OFFERING OUR PARTNERS THREE OPTIONS INSTEAD OF THE USUAL TWO

We are eager to discover the nature of the new Phillip Island asphalt. As we didn't have the opportunity to do any testing beforehand, we will bring an expanded tire allocation. For the front we will have the same compounds (Soft, Medium and Hard) as in 2023, but for the rear, we are offering our partners three options instead of the usual two. We will have the Soft compound, with its usual internal structure, but also two tires with Medium and Hard compounds, which benefit from a reinforced construction that we already saw at the end of September in Mandalika (Indonesia). We made this decision based on the configuration of the circuit and the constraints placed on the tires.

This weekend the challenge will be to provide our partners with front tires that offer a good feeling and that control thermal effects well due to the fact that they can cool down easily on this track. There is no heavy braking, the air temperature is often low, and the wind here is particularly fresh. At the rear, on the other hand, while thermal control will also be one of the keys to success, it should be noted that the tires will be exposed to constant heating due to the long fast curves and frequent acceleration that the circuit requires. However, a good understanding of the constraints generated by the new asphalt during the first test sessions will be very important.
