Phillip Island is probably the most demanding circuit of the entire championship. Every year it's a special challenge, as this layout combines multiple factors that push our tires to the limit: long, fast corners, heavy lateral loads on the left side, very few right-handers, and often low temperatures.

A MORE STANDARD
ALLOCATION,
BUT STILL WITH ASYMMETRICAL
TIRES FRONT AND REAR

Last year we brought an extended allocation to deal with the new asphalt, and everything went very well. That allows us this season to return to a more standard allocation, but still with asymmetrical tires front and rear.

The real challenge here is to manage the temperature differences between the two sides of the tire while ensuring consistent grip through those long, sweeping corners. The wind, which is often strong and cool, adds another variable – but we're confident. The data gathered last year gives us a solid foundation. Phillip Island is a truly special venue, where racing is almost always spectacular and the Australian fans bring a fantastic atmosphere. It's always a pleasure to come back here.
